Physical Description:

Azuma is an athletically built, 5'8" tall asian with dark hair. The most remarkable feature about him is his eyes; a recent SURGE caused them to change to a flat black color, with no visible pupil, iris, or whites. He prefers to dress in shades of black or gray, and makes sure that all of his clothing is fitted to accommodate vigorous physical activity.

Word on the Street:

>> I met him. I'm assuming he's former organized crime, but I can't place exactly where. One thing's for sure, he really knows how to put that bow to use.

>> H.K.

>> Wait, 'Fire Support' and the dude ain't even using a gun? WTF!?

>> Angry Alex

>> Pay attention, Alex. He's an adept. That's 'a magic man' to little guys like you.

>> Brick

>> Shutup, Brick. You piss me off.

>> Angry Alex

Personal Commentary:

My past is my own business and I don't think that it has any bearing on the job. We both know that I have the skills that I advertize, or you wouldn't have invited me here. So-ka?

Roleplaying Notes:

Azuma is calm and collected, mostly because he is extremely sure of himself and his abilities. He prefers the direct route—always and in all things. "The quickest way to the heart is through the ribcage," he's been known to say. While he is not a stranger to violence in any way, he does prefer stealth, and non-lethal methods when possible. When the lead starts to fly, or if the job requires it, he'll be the first one to charge.
